During your flight, it may be possible to adapt the content and timing of your flight according to your personal wishes.

That is why you will find below a table with different programs that could be integrated in your flight.

On the day of your flight, the particularities and restrictions of the airspace in which we will be operating as well as the meteorology of the moment will have an influence on the course of the flight.

During the flight planning phase, the pilot will try to take your wishes into account.

Therefore, please check off all the elements that would interest you in the table below.

- aerobatics
- flight at the limits of the aircraft domain (speed / incidence / accelerations / ...)
- very high altitude flight
- flight over the Alps
- region to possibly fly over: .....
